

CAVE RICH WITH FORMER MOB

BEST TO DECIDE CANDIDATE FOR G. O. P. IN 1924

Coolidge's Strength There Uncertain.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING. Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The contest will determine the Republican nomination for President next year. It has become clear in the little town that three weeks since Calvin Coolidge became President and that he was the leading aspirant to the Republican nomination in 1924.

For the nomination Mr. Coolidge is better than Mr. Harding would have been for the election, if he should be nominated. He will be stronger, in opinion of many political leaders, the re-nomination of Mr. Harding, if elected, was a foregone conclusion, and his name is now looked upon as a possible opponent of Mr. Coolidge for the nomination had decided to run for the office and keep the powder dry. They perceived too great a risk of weakness in the party in Mr. Harding for a second year, to risk an opposition candidacy, by Mr. Harding's strength.

The situation is changed. It is now that Mr. Coolidge has not been able to the full Harding strength, but it is expected that he will be able to attain to it approximately in the next few weeks. His friends are furthering his political prospects by taking the name of Mr. Harding for the benefit of the party, but it is expected that the President will be re-nominated.

It is expected that President Coolidge will not allow any of the State governors, or any of the members of the House of Representatives, to be nominated for President. It is expected that the President will be re-nominated.

Mr. Harding, whose close friend and political manager he had been for many years, will remain in the cabinet. He will be the "Leading Candidate."

Mr. Coolidge starts the nomination for President. He is by virtue of his office and power the leading candidate already. He probably will go to the convention with more delegates than any other candidate.

Mr. Coolidge will have the solid support of New England and the south where federal patronage is strong. These will aggregate 160 votes in a convention of 200 delegates.

A report of delegates in the Republican convention is in process of evolution by virtue of which the number from the south will be decreased and the number from large industrial states will be increased.

The re-nomination is complete. The national committee prepares to nominate Mr. Coolidge. The number of delegates from the south outside of the order states will be not far from 200 and the number from New England more than 100.

West to Fighting Ground.

In the east, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be fighting ground. The west will be the section of the country in which the issue will be decided.

The outstanding prospective opponent of President Coolidge for the nomination is William Johnson of California. Mr. Johnson was strong in the presidential primary of the western states and his friends are expected to be even stronger next year.

Johnson came to the fore in national politics as a progressive and therefore was fundamentally to the progressive cause. Mr. Coolidge is a conservative, a typical product of conservatism from New England. The problem of the nation is not too conservative, but it is up to Mr. Johnson to hope to win the nomination. He has convinced the east that he is a radical.

Johnson is generally regarded today as a radical, but he was before the war. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical.

Johnson is generally regarded today as a radical, but he was before the war. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical.

Johnson is generally regarded today as a radical, but he was before the war. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical. He is a conservative, but he is a radical.

CYRUS ADLER ACCUSED BY GIRL, AGED 15

Police last night guarded the home of Max Adler, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., at 4325 Greenwood avenue, to prevent further demonstrations against Cyrus Adler, 24 year old son of the millionaire. They were placed there following the narrow escape Saturday night of young Adler from the hands of angry relatives of a 15 year old girl who was accused of attacking, and a mob of sympathizers.

The fact that Adler was alive, it was said by many persons who witnessed the exciting chase over three blocks, was due to the prompt action of Policeman Redman P. Gibbons of the Hyde Park police station, who drew his revolver and held the crowd at bay until the arrival of reinforcements.

Protects Self with Gun.
Young Adler a few minutes before had saved himself from the girl's relatives by backing out of the home of Mrs. Julia Lieberman, 4444 St. Lawrence avenue, as he held them at bay with a revolver. When he ones got to the street he sped away toward 47th street, where he fell into the hands of the policeman, who was on his way home from work.

The young man was taken to the Washington avenue police station under guard and placed in a cell on charges preferred by Miss Sylvia Wagner, young schoolgirl from Milwaukee, visiting her aunt, Mrs. Lieberman. She was also looked on charges of carrying concealed weapons and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was released on bond.

What Led Up to It.
When the storm of emotion against Adler had subsided the details of the case of the trouble were learned. Adler told the police of his affair with the girl, it was said, but denied he had done anything other than take a "friendly ride" to the forest preserve with her.

With the arrival of his father and Judge Daniel P. Trude at the station the source of information were immediately cut off, and it was only with difficulty that the entire story was learned. Young Adler was taken home by his father after his bonds had been signed by Judge Trude. Fearing other attempts against his son, the father requested police protection.

According to Policeman Gibbons and a statement made by the Wagner girl the affair began last Wednesday afternoon. Adler was driving in his father's automobile with a friend, Sanders Cohn. They stopped the Wagner girl and a friend, Miss Elma Eckhaus, 4723 Forestville avenue, on the curb at Forestville and 47th street.

Invite Them to Ride.
An invitation to ride was accepted by the girls, and the two couples drove out to 31st street and Jeffrey avenue where the car was stopped, it was said. Cohn and Miss Eckhaus got out of the car and walked down the street. They returned a short time later and found Miss Wagner in tears. "They did not question her, however, and the party returned to the home of the Wagner girl's aunt, where she and her companion got out.

Adler Goes Armed.
Saturday afternoon, according to the police, Adler called the Lieberman residence and asked to speak to Miss Wagner. Mrs. Lieberman replied that the girl could not talk just then, but invited the young man over. He feared that things were not all right, he said, and took the revolver with him.

When he entered the home he noticed a number of other persons gathered in a front room. As he passed through the door one woman shouted: "You are the man who was out with little Sylvia the other day." Adler admitted he was. Immediately he was beset by the men and women in the room. Drawing his revolver, he backed out of the house. The crowd followed and the chase began. Adler turned into 47th street and started west, followed by the cries of "murder," "get him," and "kill him!"

Crowd Takes Up Chase.
A crowd in the street heard the cries and took up the chase. Seeing Policeman Gibbons on the corner, the crowd rushed to him shouting for protection. Gibbons pushed the man against the wall of a building and drew his revolver. He held the crowd off until the arrival of the patrol wagon from the Washington avenue station.

Adler will be arraigned in the Englishwood police court this morning on three charges—carrying concealed weapons, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and rape. Miss Wagner's relatives said last night that they would press the charge of rape against Adler.

AN HEIR AT LARGE (Copyright, 1923, By The Chicago Tribune)

PART II.—CHAPTER XLIV.
The editor of the Standard stared incredulously. "You doubt my word?" remarked Rasher quietly. "There's the telephone. Call up New York, Rhineland 9789, and ask for Andrew MacFall, trustee of the Livingston estate. He will identify me."

For a moment the editor made no movement. Then after lighting his pipe with hands that trembled slightly, he turned and wrote a few words on a sheet of copy paper.

"My resignation, Mr. Rasher," Rasher laughed. "I don't want your resignation, Mr. Sheers. All I want is that you follow instructions to keep after this gang until they're smoked out. It doesn't matter how high you go or how important they may be. Print the news, regardless when you hit." He arose and held out his hand. "Good luck, Mr. Sheers. Go to it and we'll back you to the hilt."

It was late when Rasher left the Standard office and turned his steps toward his room. He stopped in a telephone office and sent a wire to Mary Brook, in the Adirondacks, saying he would arrive the following afternoon.

He crossed the little park at High street and Winthrop, passing the fountain with its spilling waters, and was approaching the restaurant known as Lookout Inn when the sound of mandolin singing came through the open door. Several students, celebrating the last night of the student year, were informing the world of their intention not to go home until morning. They spilled out on the sidewalk just as Rasher reached the door. Young Holbrook, awaking unsteadily, recognized him.

"Say, Rasher, you're just the fellow I want to see." "All right here I am. Take a look."

"I just wanted to get a few things off my chest before I go away from here." He turned and called his companions, three young men equally unsteady. "Come on, children, rally 'round me. I'm going to make a speech."

"Let me introduce my friend Rasher, the human pill. I'm gonna kiss him good-by."

"I wouldn't do that, Holbrook, unless you've been unable to find a girl to kiss yet," he informed Mr. Sheers, who was standing nearby.

Flushed angrily, this pointed reference to his lack of success with Miss Lannard stung him. He lurched toward Rasher, who stepped back and raised his hand. Just a minute, Holbrook. I'm on my way home. If you want to talk to the cops around tomorrow morning when you're sober, I'll wait for you."

$100,000 of Bergdoll Gold Found, Belief

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—With the confession today of Lee Houser, a 23 year old farmer living near here, that the box he dug up last week on the Brownsville-Weverton road contained between $100,000 and $110,000, besides approximately $10,000 in gold coin, indications today grew more positive that the money is that buried by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, famous draft dodger, before his escape to Germany.

Supplementing Houser's story is that of Owen D. Shipley, proprietor of the Hotel Vivian, who for the first time told of Bergdoll's actions while here with his brother Edwin, prior to Grover Cleveland Bergdoll's mysterious escape from department of justice agents.

Another Claim on Fortune.
Complicating the situation was the assertion of C. Wheeler, a farmer, that he would lay claim to the fortune. Wheeler said his 10 year old son, Howard, is entitled to the money since he found it. He later said his son was seated on a bank beside the road when Houser's pick ax exposed the box containing the money. Houser, the boy stated, tore the box from his hand and made off with it.

The county was started today when Houser revealed the amount. Previously he had said there was but $10,000 in gold. This led to the deduction that the money, still unseen by any one, was Confederate or Civil War currency of the United States. Houser settled this by stating the bills were of dates of the last ten years.

Shipley said that the Bergdoll men, registered at his hotel under the name of Carson, associated with two prominent society girls here and made frequent all day trips along the country roads. On each trip the Bergdolls were guarded by six men, heavily armed.

Mother Refused to Talk.
Before a house committee in Washington investigating the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, Mrs. Bergdoll, the slacker's mother, in 1921, testified she buried $100,000 in gold near Philadelphia. She denied the money was buried near Hagerstown. She said nobody but she knew the spot.

Mrs. Bergdoll said she and a friend obtained the $100,000 in gold from the treasury in the fall of 1919. The friend was, according to Washington authorities, Magistrate James Romig of Philadelphia.

STATE AND CITY UNITE TO AVERT NEW KLAN RIOT

Further Disorder at Carnegie Feared.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 26.—[Special.] State, county, and municipal authorities were cooperating tonight in measures to prevent a renewal of the rioting, which, at midnight last night, resulted in the death of one klanman and the injury of many, both klanmen and their foes, when a Klan parade attempted to enter Carnegie, a suburb. The identity of those in the hospitals is being carefully guarded, all information being refused by the authorities on the ground that those receiving treatment are private patients. Well known men are reported to be among them.

Members of the Klan and their enemies were in an ugly mood tonight and fresh outbreaks were feared.

Four Women Storm Center.
It became known tonight that the flag draped automobile at the head of the parade, which was the storm center of the fighting, had four women among its occupants. Whether any one of these was injured could not be ascertained.

The body of the klanman shot to death was identified in the county morgue today as that of Thomas Abbott, 27 years old, of Allegheny, Washington county. At least a dozen persons are in hospitals with bullet or knife wounds and probably 150 others are suffering from broken bones, bruises or minor knife wounds.

Patrol McDermott, an undertaker of Carnegie, is in jail on the order of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, with three other Carnegie men, W. K. Flaherty, Joseph Joyce and George Kimmel. It is understood that no demonstration by the Klan in the town would be permitted and warned the klanmen he would not be responsible for the consequences if they did not disperse. They told the messenger no meeting was contemplated and that they were merely removing paraphernalia used in yesterday's initiation.

Ten klanmen were arrested yesterday while armed. They were taken to Carnegie automobiles to the hill and were fined $10 each for illegally carrying weapons in police court this morning. Sixteen men taken from cars bearing klan insignia following the rioting were freed.

The body of Abbott, taken from the morgue to the home of a brother klanman, B. J. McMillan of Allegheny, was guarded by a hundred members of the order tonight, and announcement was made that the guard would be maintained until after the funeral.

Klan Issues Statement.
The state klan organization tonight increased to $5,000 a reward of $5,000 offered in the afternoon by Dr. H. W. Evans, Imperial Wizard, for the arrest and conviction of the slayer. Evans addressed a meeting of state klanmen, king klanmen, and higher officers in the Fort Pitt hotel and issued what he called "an official statement to the people of the United States concerning the murder of Klanman Abbott."

"The action of the mob of Carnegie residents scents of anarchy," the statement reads. "The klanmen of western Pennsylvania gathered on a hillside overlooking Carnegie early in the evening and following the initiation of 1,000 men into the order paraded in orderly manner in the direction of the town. They were halted at a bridge by trucks and other vehicles barring the road. Mistakes of every description were thrown at the klanmen."

Save a Civilian From First.
"Pence palming bricks, stones, coal, in fact every object that could possibly maim the law abiding klanmen, were hurled at them. The civilians began firing from a dark side street and Klanman Abbott fell mortally wounded. Klanman Abbott was killed because he expressed his constitutional guaranteed right of peaceful assembly."

"We are determined that this and all other parts of our great land shall be made safe for native born Americans and that every right given us in the constitution made by our forefathers shall be preserved to us and to our posterity."

Carnegie was filled today with automobiles wending their way to Washington, where several thousand caravans

BULGAR ENVOY TO PRAGUE IS ASSASSINATED

PRAGUE, Aug. 26.—[By the Associated Press.]—Three shots were fired at M. Daskaloff, the Bulgarian ambassador, at noon today and he died a short time later on the operating table. His assassin, Atanas Nikoloff, a 36 year old Bulgarian, was arrested.

M. Daskaloff was appointed ambassador to Czechoslovakia under the regime of former Premier Stamboulsky. When Stamboulsky was overthrown by the Bulgarian army in June of this year, the new Sofia government requested the Czech authorities to extradite Daskaloff, but the request was never complied with.

INNOCENT YOUTH SLAIN BY POLICE

Mistaken in Auto for a Gang of Bandits.

Two plain clothes policemen of the West North avenue station thought the car they saw coming towards them in Western avenue early yesterday night was a gang of bandits. They mistook it for a car carrying four bandits, which they were detailed to watch for. And the five boys in the car, when they saw the policemen, without uniforms or stars, step out from the sidewalk and order them to halt, thought they might be bandits and increased their speed.

It was a dual mistake which, a few minutes later, led to the death of George J. Klinginger, 22 years old, 3436 North Albany avenue, shot through the head by one of the policemen.

ROB COMISKEY HOME AND GET $8,775 IN LOOT

Entering through a rear door which had been left open, two masked and armed Negroes made their way last night into the home of Charles A. Comiskey, 5181 South Michigan avenue, owner of the White Sox baseball team, and held up and robbed those there.

Mr. Comiskey himself was away in Wisconsin, but the robbers entered they found Mrs. J. Louis Comiskey, his daughter-in-law; her sister, Miss Alice Kelly of 2494 Jackson boulevard, and Edward Walsh, one time pitcher for the White Sox. Ordering them to throw up their hands, they forced them downstairs to the basement, where, after taking their jewelry and money, they locked them in. The Negroes then ransacked the house before leaving.

From Walsh they took $175 in cash and a stickpin valued at $600. From Mrs. Comiskey and her sister they obtained a diamond ring worth $3,000 and a wrist watch valued at $2,000, and a pearl necklace.

Man Leaps to Death Off Lake Steamship Columbus
A gray haired and bearded man of about 65 leaped to death in the lake from the lower deck of the steamship Christopher Columbus while it was eight miles out of Milwaukee. The ship's officers reported last night. The ship lowered a boat, but the body was not recovered. None on the boat could tell who the man was.

AUTO ACCIDENTS INCREASE HERE, FIGURES SHOW

Twenty-seven Crashes a Day Is Average.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The appalling loss of life in auto accidents continues to grow.

Chicago has been recording one death this year for each 19.1 accidents. These accidents are occurring at the rate of more than 27 a day. According to the average killings per month are around 43. This forecasts 516 deaths for the year within the city. These figures should not be confused with those in the Tribune clock, which relate to all Cook county.

Although the police records indicate an actual decrease in the number of deaths, the number of accidents is on the increase. To date there have been 642 auto accidents of sufficient severity to warrant the calling of the police and the making of an official record thereof. For the first seven months of the year the total was 5,730 as compared with 5,118 for the same period of last year. This indicates a substantial daily increase in the number of mishaps.

Daily Average Increases.

This year both the fatal and non-fatal accidents have averaged 27.04 per day, while in the corresponding period of last year the number was only 24.14 per day.

Of course, all auto accidents occur "suddenly," but perhaps the total accidents and deaths per month might interest the reckless driver, the careless pedestrian and the lazy policeman. The police figures for the first seven months of this year, compared with the same period of last year, are as follows:

Month	1923	1922	1923	1922
January	680	529	40	43
February	589	535	32	37
March	752	633	42	47
April	808	743	51	56
May	972	839	61	49
June	946	889	54	50
July	1,043	950	45	55
Totals	5,730	5,118	306	318

More Cars Driven

This 613 advance in the number of accidents is at the rate of 11.9 per cent. But motorists persistently claim that consideration should be given to the increase in the number of cars. The automobile has increased from 143,146 on June 1, 1922, to 213,342 on June 1 last, according to the license issued by the city clerk. That is a jump of 58.8 per cent.

It is therefore apparent that the number of accidents per 100 cars has decreased this year in comparison with last year. In the first seven months of 1922 there was one accident for each 10 cars registered, the city collector. This year there has been one accident for each 37.3 cars.

Little Progress So Far.

The activity of the present city administration in curbing accidents and reducing deaths consists in the appointment by Mayor Dever of a safety commission. This is headed by Ald. Frank J. Tomczak. It has not progressed far enough to determine what should be done.

The North Shore Motor club issued Saturday a code of ethics to which it was represented all its members have subscribed. The first of these reads as follows: "I resolve to do everything I can to prevent the appalling loss of life and property due to automobile accidents, more than 90 per cent of which are avoidable."

If this estimate is reliable, Chicago should have had only 643 accidents to date this year, instead of 642. The prevention of 5,788 accidents, which were avoidable in the opinion of the motor club, would have saved 274 of the 306 lives lost within the city.

COLD WEATHER RINGS KNELL OF BATHING SEASON

Deserted beaches yesterday, in the face of the unseasonably cool weather, sounded the knell, unofficially, of the Chicago bathing season. Only five hardy fans were discovered paddling about off shore at Clarendon beach, largest municipal bathing center of the north side. Not a single bather was in evidence at Rogers Park beach. "The water was fine today, the thermometer registering 63 degrees, but the air was too cold for them, I guess," said one beach manager. It is reported the beaches will be officially closed Labor day.

YOUTH CAPTURED AFTER HOT CHASE IN GRAVEYARD

Throngs of Sunday visitors at Calvary cemetery yesterday were startled when two 17 year old youths scampered wildly through the grounds with an Evanston policeman in hot pursuit, firing his revolver at every leap.

Several hundred people breathlessly watched the boys' desperate dash for liberty. But the policeman, William Cameron, managed to grab them both as they neared an outer gateway. One of the youngsters, however, squirmed out of the officer's arms and made good his escape.

At the police station the captured boy said he was Allan Hanson, 2708 West Polk street, and that his companion was one O'Brien, Arthington and Temple streets, Chicago. Hanson refused to explain why he and O'Brien were burying a quantity of carpenter's tools in a vacant lot when discovered by Nelson Wetling, a Northwestern student, 708 Sheridan road, who called the police.

Urges Women's Clubs to Compete for Bok Award

Five thousand women's clubs throughout the country, members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, have sent a letter by their president, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, calling attention to the American peace award created by Edward W. Bok, and reminding them that the award relates to the "subject most dear to the women of the United States." Mrs. Winter points out that organizations can compete and urge the clubs to take advantage of this provision.

CALL PARENTAL YOUTHS BEFORE GRAND JURORS

Evidence of ill treatment of youthful inmates at the Parental school, which reached a climax in the death of James Wright, will be presented to the grand jury at a special session this morning. More than a dozen boys from the institution will appear. It is said.

Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman worked most of yesterday in arranging evidence. This shows, it is said, that Fred Smith, deposed superintendent, and instructors Archibald R. Davis and Timothy Shea, not only condoned rough treatment, but on several occasions administered blows with a strap on the backs of young boys.

Subpoenas were served on twenty-six witnesses by Mr. Gorman yesterday.

BOOTLEG CRUISE IN CANADA LEADS YOUTH TO CELL

Tales of rum-running in Canada were told to Lieut. Shoemaker of the detective bureau last night by Thomas Steble, 26 years old, who claims to be a nephew by marriage of Brig. Gen. Charles E. Brewer, personal physician to the late President Harding and former captain in the United States army, who was arrested last Thursday in Waukegan on charges of removing mortgaged property from the state.

The charges were filed by E. C. Brewer, salesman with the real estate firm of Harold Bradley & Co., 717 North Michigan avenue, who alleges he sold Steble a motor launch, the Rosamita, last May. According to Brewer the price agreed upon was $2,000, of which Steble paid $675 down.

Suicide Out Warrant.

Finding that Steble had taken the yacht out of the state and bearing rumors that he was about to engage in bootleg operations, Brewer took out a warrant for his arrest. Steble asserts, on the other hand, that he sent a friend to Chicago last Thursday with the balance of the $2,000. Brewer declares the man never arrived.

Steble, who formerly lived at 920 East 43d place, said that he was a captain on the staff of Gen. Charles C. Dawes during the war. Afterwards he was attached to the veterans' bureau here until he bought the launch. According to his story, he proceeded to Toronto in company with Harry G. Downer, also formerly a captain on the staff of Gen. Dawes. There they carried tourists through the Thousand Islands region until the season finished, when they started to return to Chicago.

Beats Arrest of Friend.
Steble said that he had several times transported liquor from Toronto to other parts of Canada, but never had smuggled any into this country. He made a profit of about $10 per case in Canada, he said.

After learning of Downer's disappearance, Steble caused a warrant to be issued, charging his friend with larceny by billes.

Steble is said to have married the daughter of a retired French army officer in Paris in 1918 and to have brought her to the United States. She is now in Canada.

World's greatest cable

The American end of the world's greatest cable was landed at the POSTAL TELEGRAPH-COMMERCIAL CABLES station at Far Rockaway, Long Island, yesterday, and is expected to be in actual operation by September 15th; establishing the sixth complete cable circuit between the United States and Europe for POSTAL TELEGRAPH-COMMERCIAL CABLES. It gives this System a greater cable mileage between North America and Europe than that of any other company.

In the construction of this new cable, which is the largest ever manufactured for deep-sea operation, more than 4,000,000 pounds of copper, 1,800,000 pounds of gutta percha and some 80,000 miles of iron and steel wires of various sizes were used. The cable will be capable of transmitting 1,200 letters per minute—600 in each direction simultaneously—a capacity nearly twice that of any other long cable now in operation anywhere.

This is the first cable to be laid between the United States and Europe since 1910.

Interesting Days Ahead!

THIS is the time of year when a great organization like this is gathering all its forces for the fall season. There is hardly a section which has not some representative in Europe or the Orient in search of new merchandise. The greatest interest, of course, at this particular time, is centered in the Paris openings which many of our apparel representatives have attended.

Returning fast ships will bear great packing cases of new models of frocks, wraps, suits, hats and other articles of apparel that our buyers have selected, and which will arrive within our doors practically as soon as Paris herself is conscious of their debut. The reports that come through our Paris office are filled with anticipation of a season of unusual style interest.

When the Paris models arrive, announcement will be made through our various news mediums so that you may be among the first to come and see what Paris is simultaneously regarding as strictly new.

This Store will close at one o'clock Saturday, September first. It will be closed all day, Monday September third, and will be open as usual Tuesday morning, September fourth.

What Paris Says You Will Wear

Models and Copies from Imports in Our Collection

ALL the subtle changes in line, the new fabrics, and intricate and beautiful trimmings about which Paris has been whispering for the last few weeks, are disclosed in this first showing of Gowns for the coming season.

New and delicate shades, enchanting ways of combining materials, and a variety of clever treatments of the silhouette—some of the surprises which the great European houses have passed on to us—characterize our collections.

Satin Adapts Itself To Any Occasion

This graceful gown of reseda green satin is the answer to Paris' edict. It is the kind of frock, like many others in our collection, which you will find useful throughout the season. Simply and beautifully fashioned, it is made of materials and becoming lines make it suitable for any informal occasion; $175.

From Notes Taken in Our Costume Room, Sixth Floor

Yellow, in all its delicate and gayer shadings; and other colors—mostly green, white, black and a soft, becoming brown; and various tones of beige which are related to both brown and gray.

Round Necks or V-shaped, if you prefer, though the artless, almost off-the-shoulder styles are extremely smart.

Much Velvet, plain and brocaded—shades and a variety of crepes. These, with the new versions of chiffons and georgette crepes, are gorgeously beaded and embroidered, and exquisitely combined with lace. (Whole frocks of lace will be a great deal.)

Sleeves are back—rather timidly in evening gowns, but with all the proud assurance of the "feature" in afternoon frocks. When they are, they are apt to be very wide at the top and tight at the wrist, or vice versa, like a Bishop's.

New Coats and Suits Look to Fall Days

Coats Form a Close Warm Alliance with Fur

As witnessed by the illustration to the left. Never has there been such a stupendous use of fur, for it has no favorite territory as far as Coats are concerned, and you are as likely to find it on the skirt as on the cuffs. And wherever you find it, it is apt to be in great abundance.

Coats have several delightful vagaries, especially as to skirts, for they indulge sometimes in a lovely rippling flare at the bottom, sometimes in double or triple tiers—and sometimes they combine both ripple and tier.

Collars and Cuffs

are deep and of fur, and linings march either coat or the fur that trims it. The materials are of an uncommon softness and richness and the colors are rare and subdued and include Alaskan, coffee, Tamps, and black.

Women's Wraps and Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

Suits Combine Fur and Fabric Smartly

MATERIALS of many of the finer Fall Suits are from a French house whose name is synonymous the world over with beautiful and original designs in wools, silks, and cottons.

The furs which trim these Suits are of a softness and depth which blend most effectively with their handsome materials.

Lines—how shall we describe them? Long and unbroken for the most part, for the belted model is as smartly apparent in Suits as in Frocks.

An Attractive Suit Is Sketched

20 SOLDIERS OF CHINA SHOOT AT U.S. MISSIONARY

Miss Man and Family Escape Bullets.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Tribune Foreign News Service.) PEKING, Aug. 26.—J. A. Miller, a Presbyterian missionary from Illinois, was shot at by 20 Chinese soldiers as he walked to his station at the Imperial railway town of Shuntzhu, a province, while driving from the railway to the mission with his wife and daughter, was fired upon by twenty soldiers.

The father was wounded, requiring attention of his arm.

The Americans were not injured. The shooting occurred near the mission walls. After dawn nine shells were fired where the soldiers resided.

Following the shooting of the missionary and the Irish Catholic priest, in Shuph province, another missionary, an Italian priest, whose house was burned. The priest has been killed.

Further Priest to Death.

An unconfirmed report states that Father Lottio, an Italian priest, captured five months ago in northern China, has succumbed. Last reports indicated that he was being tortured. His head was being torn out by dogs.

The situation in China is rapidly growing worse, while the unpaid army is being increased. Under the threat of banishment, volunteers are being officially enrolled in six provinces of Shantung, but it is suspected that this is for the purpose of aiding the Chinese to retain power.

For the upkeep of this increased army the Shantung government is imposing a consumption tax, resulting in a loss of half a dozen centers. These include the burning of one tax office and the driving out of a collector at another place.

Power Plan New Demand.

The powers are preparing new regulations owing to the weakness of the Chinese note. The British and the Americans object to this. The British wish the daily revenue from the Tientsin-Pukow line to be a diversion of funds to the British bank, which would enable a dispute among the powers to be settled.

The Chinese have stiffened. The opposition to the Lincheng demands is a wide propaganda, which also has powers are violating China's sovereignty.

Cloudburst Floods Naples and Vesuvius Villages

(United Press.) NAPLES, Aug. 26.—In the lower section of this city were flooded today by a four-hour cloudburst that spread over the entire bay of Naples.

From the slopes of Mt. Vesuvius, a stream of volcanic sand and ashes which poured into the flooded summit of the volcano.

might ask: In advising people to get away from interruption of coal supply by strikes or kindred, why advise them to go to oil? It is nothing about gas? It is possible that the individual householder's supply might be interrupted with as little as a strike interferes with a coal supply. True, if there were no oil or oil available, the gas supply would be interfered with, but unlike the coal or oil, that would be the work of just one company, whose job it is prepared for such emergencies.

ALL WE RECOGNIZE MEXICO IS A BATTLEFIELD KEEP AMERICANS FROM THERE!

Wm. W. Aug. 25.—I am writing the state department at Washington, D. C., protesting against the recognition of the Mexican "government" as my brother, R. A. Newman, is in captivity down there.

Because surely it is an outrage that American citizen shall be held month and mistreated while his government is carrying on negotiations with Mexico looking to the settling of American property down there. It would seem that American property is of more consequence to our government than are the lives and sufferings of American citizens who have been three years in France!

WHY WE'RE COLD

BY SELBY MAXWELL.

The cool weather that we have had lately in Chicago and the region of the lower great lakes has been due to activity on the Hudson bay storm track. A family of large storms is passing over Canada, and cold winds from them have blown down over us. Storms travel in families. Scientists call these families plectons. The usual number of storms in a plecton are six, weak at the beginning and end of the procession, and most violent in the middle. The plecton that is causing the present deficiency in temperature began to pass about Aug. 12, but its full strength was not apparent until Aug. 22.

Four of its storms have passed already. If the family is normal, there are two more west of us, the trailers of the group. Some plectons have only four or five sharply defined storms in them. The end members are so weak that they sometimes blend with the families on other tracks, and get lost.

PRESS HUNT FOR DREVEN'S WIDOW IN POISON CASE

Orders from Coroner Oscar Wolf to arrest on sight Mrs. Florence Dreven, wife of Policeman Henry Dreven, who died on Aug. 11 from arsenical poisoning, and hold her for the murder of her husband, yesterday spurred detectives and attaches from the coroner's office to a keen search for the woman who disappeared from her home, 5229 Henderson street, Saturday afternoon.

Places she might have visited since she was last seen were searched by squads of police from the Irving Park station under Sgt. William Steffens. The hunt led through the north side and out to Oak Park, where relatives of Mrs. Dreven reside.

Mrs. Dreven was questioned by Coroner Wolf on Thursday after relatives of Policeman Dreven had told him of certain circumstances surrounding Dreven's death by arsenic.

It was also said that Mrs. Dreven had had several suitors prior to her husband's death. One of them, Harold Head, 19 years old, admitted to the coroner that he was a friend of the woman and had visited her home on several occasions.

As there was no direct evidence to connect Mrs. Dreven to what Coroner Wolf termed "a murder," she was released. The widow promised to return to the coroner's office Saturday afternoon. When she failed to keep the appointment a deputy was sent to the home.

Coroner Wolf announced last night that he will hold a conference with Acting State's Attorney Edgar A. Jones this morning to determine what action to take.

SEEK TO STOCK BIG PLANTS WITH COAL IN SUMMER

Ways and means whereby large industrial establishments may inaugurate a policy of storing huge stocks of coal during the slack summer months when the retail market is at a minimum, are to be discussed today at a conference of the Federated American Engineering Societies.

The conference, to last two days, is to be held in the office of W. L. Abbott, chairman of the committee, in the Commonwealth Edison building.

The committee has been conducting an exhaustive study of the coal storage situation in 100 cities, in cooperation with the United States coal commission and the department of commerce.

OMAHA WARS ON TYPHOID MENACE IN DIRTY WATER

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Omaha today started its fight against typhoid fever and other diseases which scientists say menace the city following its week without water. The breakdown of the water system was a tremendous inconvenience, but the specialists say the city is now threatened with a calamity in the form of epidemics of typhoid, dysentery, and other germ diseases due to the impurities carried by the water system last week.

"Don't use a drop of water that has not been boiled," is the slogan with which the health authorities are carrying on the fight against contagion.

"Boil your water," is the warning broadcasted all over the city. It is in big letters in the newspapers; it sprays over big billboards; it is tacked on telephone poles; peddlers carry it through the streets, and it flares from the sides of all moving vehicles.

Health authorities today declared the old bank of mud and silt which has been accumulating for years above the intake to the city water plant is a veritable bed of disease germs. It was this mass of filth that the Missouri river cut away and swept into the city's water system. Ten days to two weeks must elapse, officials say, before danger of epidemic will have passed.

PERSHING ENDS TOUR OF CITIZENS' TRAINING CAMPS

His inspection tour of citizens' military training camps ended with his visit to Camp Oster, Mich., Saturday, Gen. John J. Pershing departed for Washington yesterday to meet his 14-year-old son, Warren, who enters Phillips Exeter academy next month.

Arriving in the city from Battle Creek Saturday night with Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Gen. Pershing spent the night at the Dawes home in Evanston and left for the east on the Broadway Limited yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by his aide, Col. Marshall, a member of the general staff.

Young Warren Pershing is with his father's sister, Miss May Pershing, in Washington. After a short visit in the capital Gen. Pershing intends to accompany his son to Exeter, N. H., and place the lad in the academy, which was founded in 1751.

Gen. Pershing was high in his praise of the citizens' military training camps. Before visiting Camp Oster, Gen. Pershing saw "Buck Private" John Coolidge, son of the President, among the rookies at Camp Devens, Mass.

Held up by two colored men yesterday at 14th street and the Soo line railroad, Albert Sellers, 2940 South Union street, was robbed of $5.

U. S. BEGINS SOON TO SCRAP SHIPS UNDER NAVY PACT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Scrapping of United States naval vessels in accordance with the four-power treaty for the limitation of armaments is expected to begin soon. The navy department will ask for alternative bids for getting rid of the ships, one method being for the purchase of the ships "as is," another for the cutting up of the ships into scrap steel, the navy to sell the scrap, and the third for a total figure for the complete and final settlement of all claims in connection with the construction and scrapping of the vessels, shipbuilders to keep the scrap.

This program has created interest as to the possible effect the salvaging of the steel may have on the scrap market. According to the Iron Age, the twenty ships to be scrapped over and above the four that will be used as targets, will yield a total of 331,976 tons of steel and about 11,000 tons of nonferrous metal.

Of the steel tonnage approximately 60 per cent consists of plates and shapes, while about 40 per cent represents armor plate.

HOMER'S DEATH VICTIM.
Attacked by two colored men at 47th street and Dearborn avenue yesterday, Robert J. Reed, 41 years old, 4645 Evans avenue, was stabbed in the neck and afterwards robbed of $9. He was taken to the Chicago hospital.

Capture Fugitive from Asylum at Brother's House

Neighbors who saw Oscar Pearson, 48 years old, said to have escaped from the Kankakee asylum, prowling about his brother's house at 1949 Warner avenue yesterday, called the police who took him into custody. He was sent to the Psychopathic hospital for examination and probable commitment.

CANNOT NEGLECT EUROPE'S TRADE HOOVER WARNS

Carried by U. S. Tre
South America, As

A STAFF CORRESPONDENT
Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Hoover today declared that our trade with Europe is the most important of American business interests in expanding business with America and Asia.

Secretary Hoover's view is set forth in a leading article of this week's Commerce Reports, published by the department of commerce, which was written by throwing out a familiar picture of American farmers and other exporters to Europe who are themselves in the competition of Europe's capacity to import goods.

Government officials in Europe with export activities feel that much attention has been given to the promotion of American goods in Europe.

Most Not Neglect Europe. The fact deserves emphasis that the European area is still the largest market of the United States and the policy just mentioned, which is to be general in American trade relations, may result in a more rapid development of its export business.

There is probably an even greater reason. In examining the statistics it will be observed that our trade with Europe is in raw materials, foodstuffs and other staple commodities, while our trade with Asia is in manufactured goods.

It is a lack of knowledge of the simple commodities in the world that are generally handled by

NOT NEGLECT EUROPE'S TRADE, HOOVER WARNS

U. S. Trend
South America, Asia.

STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
D. C. Aug. 26.—(Specially for the Tribune.)—
The United States has lost sight of the fact that the new manufacturing interest of American manufacturers is expanding business with Europe and Asia.

The secretary of the U. S. Trade commission, in his report on the state of the world's trade, published by the department of commerce, which winds up the year, is giving a familiar hint to American farmers and other producers of goods for export to Europe that they should not neglect the capacity to import of the continent.

Government officials in close touch with export activities feel that the attention has been given to the promotion of American foreign trade with South America and Asia to the detriment of our trade with Europe.

Not Neglect Europe.
The fact deserves emphasis that the United States is still the largest of the world's nations, which the United States just mentioned, which is to be general in American organizations interested in developing business, may result in the development of the continent.

The emphasis placed on exports to Europe, which is out of proportion to the actual volume of business done there, can, however, be corrected. It does not lie only in the actual proportion on the part of the United States, but in the fact that our trade with Latin America and the far east is a growing one in expanding countries with increasing standards of living whereas the trade has already been declined in past decades.

There is probably an even more important reason. In examining the statistics it will be observed that our trade with Europe consists of raw materials, foodstuffs, other staple commodities, whereas the trade we have developed our country in manufactured goods and other products.

There is lack of knowledge.
Many commodities in the world's markets are generally handled by middlemen. The farmer whose grain moves to the United Kingdom and the cotton grower whose product is received of the Bremen docks have little knowledge of, and therefore comparatively little direct interest in their goods after they have been received and paid for by the American middleman. The manufacturer of machinery, electrical equipment, and specialties, however, is generally personally interested in his foreign business because it is carried on by direct trade.

"For this reason European developments are closely followed by a group much smaller in number than the case with respect to non-European fields."

Police Settle Brothers' Dispute Over Dynamite

William Drimicas and Paul Patrick found two sticks of dynamite under their house at 911 West 18th street.
Drimicas wanted to have some fun with it and set it off in a vacant lot near the river. They decided to ask Sergeant Comstock of the Maxwell street station to settle their differences.
Sergeant Comstock pointed out that they would be arrested if they either set it off or were seen carrying it through the manufacturing district to the river and suggested they leave it with him.
The suggestion was accepted.

ALL GLOUCESTER AWAITS MORNING LIGHT AND RACE

EDITOR'S NOTE—James Brendan Connolly is perhaps the greatest writer of sea tales, especially tales of the Grand Banks and of the Gloucester fishing fleet, among modern writers. He was New England born, and was on the banks as a boy. He won two events for America in the first Olympic championship at Athens in 1896, served in the Spanish-American war, and has been among the well known writers on sea topics for years. Among his works are "Out of Gloucester," "The Deep Sea Trawl," "Open Water," "The Tracery," "Red Winds," and "The U Boat Hunters." His knowledge of Gloucester Banks fishing and sailing is first hand, and his stories of the race between the Newfoundland and Gloucester fishing boats carry the thrills of the greatest of all sailing races.

BY JAMES CONNOLLY.

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The Henry Ford, Elizabeth Howard and Shamrock, three of the fastest, handsomest and most wealthy schooners ever launched, were waiting the morning light to put out to race. The Columbia, built last winter with the same intent that built scores of Gloucester vessels before her, which was to beat anything that ever sailed past Eastern point, will not be here to race. She was run down, and all but sunk, on the Grand Banks three weeks ago, and had to put into Miquelon Islands for repairs.

Capt. Geale sent word that he would not be home in time for this race, but he would be sure, that is, if no body sinks him in the meantime, home in October to sail the winner for the honor of going to Nova Scotia this fall to bring back the international cup. He also sent word that Ben Pine might have the use of his big mainmast to use on the Howard for this anniversary race.

Pine a Real Sailor.

Ben Pine, who will sail the Howard, has a colorful personality. He is husky, brawny and brainy, the head of a fishing corporation here, knows how to stand up and raise his voice in the chamber of commerce, and also how to stand up in the aftermath of a fisherman and raise his voice there, too.

Every time one of these fishermen's races comes along Ben shuts up shop and makes for his wharves. He sailed the Howard in the trial races for the international cup last fall, and was leading the fleet by half a mile when he carried away his top masts and so lost his big chance.

The Henry Ford is the vessel that all believe was done out of the international championship last year, after fairly winning it. In this Gloucester race, things are different. The judges are mostly fishing captains, and they are not attempting to tell any racing shipper what sail he may carry on his vessel.

Class to the Shamrock.

They threw the race open to all two masted seagoing schooners from any part of the world. There were no restrictions. If any captain had a pet whale of a mainmast that he wanted to hoist, why, let him hoist it.

These seagoing judges have ruled that a sail that a bank fisherman will dare to carry through a winter gale is a proper sail to race with on any day, and in any place.

The Howard and Ford, hurrying home from the Grand Banks, one a fresh halibut, the other a salt fisherman, arriving only a few days ago, make the sportiest kind of entries.

No fancy gear on them, everything just as they use it in actual fishing. But the sport entry of a salt fisherman, the Shamrock, which never has been fishing at all. She is just off the stocks.

Want That Cup.

Eight days ago she was launched in Essex. Six days later, the day before yesterday, that is, with her spars up, her sails bent, her ballast stowed, she was sailing out under a picked gang from along the water front to try herself out.

There is a fishing firm in Boston, the O'Hara Bros. When Sir Thomas Lipton put up that handsome first trophy, and Col. Prentiss put up another lovely looking one for second place, Jack O'Hara conceived the idea that one of them, preferably the Lipton cup, would look fine and dandy on a marble pedestal which stood between the two front windows of his living room home. So he said to his two brothers: "What do you say if we build a vessel for the Gloucester anniversary race?"

Said the brothers: "Don't you think Marty thought he had done with race."

JUST CAME OVER, BUT THEY LEAD OLYMPIAS TO 3 TO 1 SOCCER WIN

CLEVER work on the part of two new players, Lautenbacher and Kratochvil, recent arrivals from Europe, yesterday gave the Olympias a 3 to 1 soccer victory over the Bricklayers at Cicero avenue and Roosevelt road. Kratochvil scored two goals, while the defensive work of Lautenbacher contributed much to the victory. Lineup:

Next Sunday and Labor day the Olympias will meet the famous Barrett-Hoovers of St. Louis at 19th street and 47th avenue.

We got stock enough in fishing vessels now! All we can handle, we think."

Built in a Hurry.

Retorted Jack: "O, we're interested in not one race, but among 'em all not one race. What kind of a fleet do you call it that hasn't got one racing vessel among 'em? Now we will build a flyer for this Gloucester anniversary race, and who knows, we might win it? If we win it, who knows again? She may be picked for the American vessel to go down to Nova Scotia, this fall and bring back the international cup."

Those last words of Brother Jack had a powerful influence. Story of Essex got orders to build a vessel, to drive her night and day, building; Cooney of Gloucester to hurry the sails; Ralph Foley to get busy on the ballast and inside work.

"Never mind if she hasn't a bunk board or an ice house or a mail locker or a single bulkhead below in her. So long as she has masts and sails and enough deck room for the crew to run around, we will put her in the race."

Sailed by Old Marty Welch.

And so she stands today, a shell below deck, except for ballast enough to hold her up to a breeze of wind. Up to yesterday afternoon they did not know where they would go to as skipper of her. They wanted a skipper with race blood and experience. They were still in a quandary when lo and behold, who should come sailing into Boston with a trip of fresh mackerel but the famous Marty Welch, skipper of the Esperanza when she won the first fishermen's international championship off Halifax two years ago.

Said the brothers: "Don't you think Marty thought he had done with race."

Society Girls Eye Dempsey; Firpo Pounds Sparring Mates

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[By the Associated Press.]—Working out before a crowd of more than 2,000 spectators, one of the largest that ever witnessed a training session of a heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey went through an equivalent to ten rounds at his Saratoga Lake camp today with the eyes of society matrons and debutantes watching every move.

When the champion, his broad shoulders covered with a flashy bathrobe, entered the canvas walled arena the throng was so dense with fashionably gowned women and their escorts, that he had to shoulder his way to the ring. Harry F. Sinclair, oil operator; Mrs. Sinclair, Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, Mrs. J. S. Corden, wife of turkman and oil magnate; Mrs. Elaine Elkins, Mrs. Williams Hill, and Mrs. Fall, wife of the former secretary of the interior, were among the spectators.

The cold from which the champion is suffering was reflected in his work. He complained of stiff muscles and did not work with his characteristic aggressiveness. He boxed six rounds and appeared to be slow in shooting his punches at George Godfrey and Jack Burke. Jack Bernstein, world's junior lightweight champion, boxed the final two rounds to develop the champion's speed.

To avoid danger of going stale Dempsey announced tonight he would suspend training tomorrow and possibly Tuesday and Wednesday. Jack Bevers, who will enable him to shake off his cold.

ing. This being an international racing hero interested too much with a man's fishing (so Marty has been saying for the last year). But when the O'Hara boys put it up to him last evening in Boston, Marty did not wait to down to Gloucester; he jumped into a motor car and over the road he came. Last night was the first time he set eyes on the vessel he will handle tomorrow.

Late last night he was running around gathering up a crew. He did not have to do much running. Plenty of lads up on the corner were right willing to sail with Marty.

Gloucester Prays for Wind.

All this afternoon Marty spent outside the breakwater with the Shamrock, getting acquainted with her ways, and breaking his green crew to their stations. As I write this, he is sailing back up the harbor and the report is that he would like a little more time to get acquainted.

We have three great vessels tugging at their wharf lines and three great characters of captains—Clayton Morrissey, Marty Welch, and Ben Pine, all set to sail them. All we need for one of the greatest races ever sailed, is wind, and so every man you meet on a Gloucester corner tonight is praying for wind.

The middle aged and older ones recall with passionate glees that one real race which was sailed on that other anniversary of thirty years ago. That was the time when the wind blew sixty miles an hour, and three of Gloucester's famous captains sailed out with their main halyards lashed aloft and the precaution on their lips that no sail would be taken in that day, "except what the Lord takes off for us," and no mainmast of theirs did come off that day.

FARM & GARDEN

GRIND $1 WHEAT FOR COW; $30 BRAN TOO HIGH, EXPERTS SAY. WITH bran selling around $30.00 a ton and the wheat market pecking away at the dollar mark, farmers are being advised to market their grain through their dairy cows instead of selling it for cash. Out in the heart of the Chicago dairy district a county agent, who is alive to the market situation and the practical side of the dairyman's feeding problems, says that bran running from $28 to $30 a ton, as it has been this week "is not worth the money with, grains at their present level."

It has been figured out by L. L. Heller, farm adviser in Cook county, that farmers can get no more for their wheat than they pay for bran, pound for pound. "While wheat has three per cent less digestible protein than bran, it has 20 per cent more digestible nutrients," he says. "True it is, ground wheat does not lend lightness to the ration as does bran, but this can be obtained from ground oats, barley or corn and cob meal, and it pays better to grind any of these feeds than to buy mill feed at present price levels. Indeed, it would better to buy oats and barley and grind them if you have none on the farm."

HUGE GODFREY TO BOX LANGFORD'S CONQUEROR HERE

George Godfrey, one of Jack Dempsey's chief sparring partners, and Clem Johnson, who claims the heavyweight championship of Mexico, will trade punches for ten rounds or less in the window of the show at the Hawthorne race track tomorrow night. This show, is being staged by the Sol Sai Mar post of the American Legion, of which E. J. Banks is the matchmaker.

Godfrey, who scales 225 pounds, got permission to leave Dempsey's camp in the east yesterday.

Johnson finished training yesterday by doing eight rounds at Jones' gymnasium on the south side. The colored heavyweight is a tall, rangy fighter, who packs a wallop in his right hand. He won the Mexican title by knocking out Sam Langford.

Lynch Here Wednesday.

Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, who will meet Harold Smith of the stockyards in the window of the boxing show to be conducted by Jim Mullen and Jack Sager in the Pine bowl at Aurora on Friday night, will arrive in Chicago Wednesday morning to complete training at the Arcade.

Word to this effect was received yesterday by Promoter Mullen from Manager Eddie Meade, who assured the promoter Lynch is in good shape. Meade, however, insisted the weight be 120 pounds so that Joe's title will not be in danger.

The Door of Desire

BY ROY VICKERS

STORY.

Thurlo had been engaged to Jacqueline Croze. They quarreled, and Jacqueline married Martin's cousin, Julian, second Viscount Montrose. Julian calls on Martin and tells him that he has just killed Thurlo, who had been blackmailing him. Julian asks Martin to help him to escape. Martin agrees, and they flee to the United States.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII
YOUNG SKIDDY ESCAPES.

Twelve hours later James Segrove, at work in his first street office, was told that Detective Inspector Bedford wished to see him.

"The Montrose case, I suppose," said Segrove as soon as the door had closed behind him.

"The Montrose case," affirmed Bedford. "It's beginning to worry me, Mr. Segrove."

"I've got a sense of smell," suggested Segrove sympathetically.

"You're laughing at me," protested Bedford, sitting heavily down in the chair.

"I'm not laughing at you," said Segrove. "Did you ever play a kid's game where you have a handful of little colored pots at you and tell you to guess what's inside?"

"Yes," said Segrove. "And I never could guess, unless it was pepper."

"That's the Montrose case," said Bedford. "I've smelled all the little colored pots, and now of 'em has made me sneeze. And yet that pepper must be something else. Not to speak in parables." Segrove grinned unashamedly.

"You've been a murder, and there must be a murderer somewhere."

"Not necessarily," said Segrove, "but let us assume that it is so in this case."

"I can smell a lot of funny things that give me plenty to think about."

"What's that?" asked Bedford. "But I don't want to do any more thinking now until I can get to the bottom of this case."

"Well, that's this Montrose case," said Bedford. "I like to clear up this case, and I'm not going to let you off until you've cleared up a single thing except that you say that young Skiddy didn't arrive on the Equador on Monday night. But all that."

"Hold on a minute," said Segrove. "Is young Skiddy Mrs. Skiddy's son?"

"Yes, Mr. Segrove, and his father—apparently it's no secret—was the old Lord Montrose. Mrs. Skiddy was a servant at his country place."

"Indeed?" said Segrove thoughtfully.

"What's what I thought at first, but it's just another smell I can't put a name to. The details of the story are as follows," Bedford produced a sheet of paper and took a deep breath.

"The child was born three months after the Skiddys got married. It was named after the vicar remembers the christening of it because he and Mrs. Skiddy are both keen gardeners and got friendly during the three months the Skiddys were in the parish. Before the child was more than six weeks or so old the Skiddys moved to Finchley, where they gave themselves out as a childless couple. Twelve years afterward it so happened that the vicar of the parish moved to one in Finchley and recognized Mrs. Skiddy at once—by her nose, or something of that sort. He made the usual inquiries about her and Mrs. Skiddy said her husband had adopted the child and taken it to America. This was the first the neighborhood had heard of young Skiddy's existence."

"Where was he taken to?" asked Bedford.

Good morning!
Before you see this picture and AFTER you see it, keep this in your mind: MANY newspaper men are like the ones you will meet in "Her Reputation." Of course, when a reporter is sent out to get a story he does his best to get it. But he is supposed to verify everything he hears or sees. AND as a rule he is a pretty honest and humane sort of person. NOT a demon, who for a few lines in print, will ruin lives and break hearts ruthlessly.

Also make mental note that the men behind the papers are not given to taking out on EVERY woman their grudge against some ONE woman. News is news. The men behind the reporters to GET IT. You'd howl if you didn't HAVE the news with your breakfast coffee and to read going home on the train. BUT the newspaper profession has its ethics the same as any other. Don't forget!

"Her Reputation" is the story of a girl, caught in a mesh of circumstantial evidence, is hounded by a big newspaper. So desperate is she that she even endeavors to ford a Mississippi flood in her efforts to get away.

While floating around on a raft she encounters the son of the newspaper owner who has been reared to hate women. Coincidence? You tell me! (Maybe your sense of humor will stand by her.)

After a remarkable series of incidents she is enabled to show every body concerned with the aforementioned newspaper just how wrong they are, and, of course, there's the happy ending with the owner's son and the beautiful but no longer hounded heroine planning a happy future.

Summing the picture up, Miss McAvoy and Mr. Hughes are most attractive. The supporting cast supports well. The story is awful. The sets and photography all right. Some of the shots of the newspaper local and press rooms are fine.

See you tomorrow!

Send them to MAE TINEE, Chicago Tribune.

After a remarkable series of incidents she is enabled to show every body concerned with the aforementioned newspaper just how wrong they are, and, of course, there's the happy ending with the owner's son and the beautiful but no longer hounded heroine planning a happy future.

Summing the picture up, Miss McAvoy and Mr. Hughes are most attractive. The supporting cast supports well. The story is awful. The sets and photography all right. Some of the shots of the newspaper local and press rooms are fine.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Salubrious Sweet Corn.

Every year the waste of sweet corn becomes greater instead of less. Every year I could cry about it, and I try to avoid in print. I have known once of what I wrote helping a dealer, just once!

Really, it is shocking, this waste! Every woman who buys an ear of corn in certain stores tears open and rejects half a dozen. That is ridiculous. Can she not take a sporting chance? She could not buy corn that way at a garden. She would become more intelligent if she would learn to pick out corn by the feel of the outside of the ear, as she would if she were a good gardener picking corn for the table.

People who have corn in their garden do not expect to get that supreme uniformity and perfection in each of these thoughtful buyers demand that it is not to be had in this important world.

One day early this month a big and expensive store was offering "bushel corn" for 12 cents a bushel while at a little and some low priced vegetable store the price was 50 cents a bushel. I was snooping for information, I got it.

"What are you going to do with that?" said the clerk, pointing to a barrel of waste beside a bushel of corn. Further poor and long picked corn can be made into excellent palatable dishes. Cut it off and serve gently in a little water. Season it with a bit of sugar. Or combine it with tomatoes and green peppers. Buy the cooked potato and onions. Buy the rejected ears and use for this!

On one occasion, when mother was leaving Dorothy to the care of a neighbor girl Dorothy said: "When I get a little girl of my own I'm going to mamma her all the time." J. O.

Marion was afraid she could not go to school because she did not know how to whisper. Later she said: "Mother, I know now how to whisper—you just talk still." A. H. K.

"What are you reading?" I asked Dot. "O, I am looking at the pictures and using my own thinks for reading," she answered. E. F. L.

Society to Attend Opening Today of New Shut-In Shop

Much interest centers in the newly decorated first floor of an old house at 105 East Walton place, transformed into one of the most attractive of near north side shops, which will be opened today under the auspices of one of the city's most popular philanthropies, the Vocational Society for Shut-ins.

According to officers of the society, an increasing demand for the hand work of the "homebound" who find occupation and remuneration through the efforts of the society has necessitated the opening of this shop in addition to the regular quarters on North Michigan avenue.

The large rooms, which are ivory white and decorated with touches of green, will be displayed today Italian linens, woven household novelties, hooked and braided rugs, painted toys, and many other well selected articles, and all of society that remains in the city will attend the formal opening.

The hostesses will be Mrs. Arthur S. Hark, president; Mrs. Frank M. Hark, vice president; Mrs. Stephen Hark, Mrs. Frederick J. Weisell, and Mrs. Percy Skillin.

Prenuptial parties planned for Miss Curtis Bourneque, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Bourneque of Highland Park, whose marriage to Joseph Wilson Rice, son of Mrs. Wilson Samuel Rice, is to take place in September, begin today with the arrival in the city of Catherine Ragsdale of Middleton, O., who is to be one of the bridesmaids. A number of informal luncheons and teas will be given for Miss Ragsdale both today and tomorrow in Highland Park.

On Wednesday afternoon the bride, Miss Angela Downey of Evanston, will give a luncheon at the Hawthornes for the bride-to-be. The following Wednesday Miss Dorothy Curtis of Highland Park will give a dinner and theater party for her cousin, Miss Bourneque.

On Tuesday night Mr. Rice will have his bachelor dinner at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, and on the following Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Bourneque will have the bridal dinner at their Highland Park residence.

Next Saturday night Miss Virginia Jones of 3114 Sheridan road will have a dinner party at Esmor for the young people and on Monday, Sept. 3, Burton Judge Jr. will give a dinner at the Ambassador hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe of Lake Forest will depart next Friday for Hot Springs, Va.

Miss Margaret O'Connor is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Talbot at their summer residence in Charlevoix, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle J. Holdrege of 2130 West street and their daughter, Betty, returned on Friday from a month's stay in the Wisconsin woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fish, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Powell, William Selig of Winnetka and their daughter, Miss Alice de Windt, are prolonging their stay abroad, and instead of returning to their Winnetka residence today, as they had planned, will arrive until well into September.

A number of society folk have taken part in the midsummer frolic and dance tonight at the Teladon. The "Twining Tree" Joe Funt and "Algonquin." Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, James Veigh, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Madge, Mrs. Joseph Fish, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Powell, William Selig and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Sharp, and Mr. and Mrs. Aldin Wagner.

The board of directors and members of the Woman's Association of Commerce will give a dinner tonight at 10 o'clock at the Union League club for the women students of the National School for Commercial Trade Education at Northwestern university.

Seeks to Widen Activity of Women in Preaching Field

"All at it and always at it," is the motto adopted by Miss Madeline Southard, president of the International Association of Women Preachers, which held a three-day convention beginning tomorrow evening at 10 o'clock at the Chicago Training School for Women Preachers, 1001 North Dearborn street.

Southard applied her motto yesterday in expressing the desire of the association to broaden the scope of its work by the inclusion of women of other denominations who still maintain their own organizations.

Southard and her women preacher associates have been discussing the walls of denominationalism which still exist in the minds of many women.

Mrs. Wilson Takes First Vacation in Four Years

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—(Special.)—Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the president of the navy, will remain here until the end of the week before returning to the White House. She is expected to spend the week at the White House, where her children are spending the summer.

The secretary to the President, Clegg, is in his home at Big Spring Gap, Va., after having been in the city for a few days. He will come to Washington to assume his new duties at the White House on Labor day.

The chief of the bureau of aeronautics, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, will leave for his home in California. Mr. Moffett will introduce his daughter, Miss Janet Moffett, to society at a tea to be given at her residence on the afternoon of Dec. 8. They will remain at a dance for Miss Moffett on the evening of Dec. 27.

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Let's get spliced," says the young man to the girl.

"All right, let's," answers the girl, grabbing for her hat and powder puff while the young man runs down the clergyman list in the classified section of the telephone book to find the one nearest.

And that's about all there is to the fine art of proposing these hectic days. Can you imagine a "23 model of young lover approaching his beloved with the graceful terms and the studied speech of our ancestors?

No, thank heavens, you cannot! I think the present day women have a better developed sense of humor than the "girls" of a few generations back. Or perhaps it is that the modern one wants her proposal simpler and easier, as she wants almost everything else these days.

I have just read in an old treatise on marriage a chapter given to "The Writer said: 'I live in a state of terror of hearing some wretch proposing by typewriter. A typewritten proposal would be dreadful; it would look like it had gone round like a circular.'

And here we find "wretches" using the typewriter, the telegraph wires, and even inviting the whole world to come to bed if they wish, on the lady's answer by radio.

We surely live in an age of frankness—arms, legs, hearts. Concealment, the worm in the bed feeds upon no dainties cheeks or swarthy ones these days. All in the picture, however, and a healthy sign.

If a modern maid received such a proposal as Richard Steel wrote, she probably would call up the nearest psychopathic ward for a reservation for him. "I have not a minute's quiet out of your sight," he begins, "and when I am with you, you use me with so much discipline that I am still in a state of absence, heightened with a view of the charms which I am denied to approach. In a word, you must either give me a fan, a mask, or a glove you have worn, or I cannot live; otherwise you must expect I will kiss your hand or, when I next sit by you, steal your handkerchief. You yourself are too great a beauty to be reserved at once; therefore, I must be prepared by degrees, lest the mighty gift distract me with joy. Dear Mrs. Scurluck, I am tired with calling you by that name; therefore, say the day the word 'Mrs. Scurluck' to me, and I will take that of, madam, your most obedient, most devoted, humble servant."

The modern interpretation of the art of proposing undoubtedly, too, is a saving on the velvet rug in the home of the popular girl.

"Look here, Fanny," said the thrifty mother of some time ago, "you make haste and marry one of your suitors for the drawing room carpet is getting quite worn by going down upon their knees to propose to you."

About the sole answer a modern Romeo would get, were he to go down upon his marrow bones in the old fashioned, chivalrous way, would be a hearty guffaw and a pet query as to "What's wrong with this picture?"

I guess the short and to the point system is a distinct improvement on the artificial and bombastic style of generations ago. It is at least relieving the situation of the dangers that used to be attendant on shyness which in the following instance dealt the proposal a paralytic stroke:

A college professor had reached middle age without marrying. Suddenly he returned his house, then paid a state visit, more carefully dressed and more bashful than usual. The lady, innocent of his intentions, told him she had heard how beautiful his house had been returned.

"I hear it is perfect," she announced. "No, no, Miss Jane, he stammered, it is not perfect. It cannot be while there is one thing wanting."

"What is that?" asked the lady. "Eh, dear me—it's not perfect. It cannot be until it's got a—sideboard." The telephone might have given him the courage he needed. Because he did exhibit remarkable nerve when it comes to telling people what we want over the phone.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Be Otherwise Engaged.

"Dear Miss Blake: About eight months ago I met a young man three years my senior. When I first met him we went out often, but now he used to like him very much, but now I find I do not care for him. He is a respectable young man and my parents like him, and that is what troubles me. I want to give him up, but do not know how. TROUBLE."

If you feel that way and you realize the young man's name is likely to be associated with yours to the exclusion of other possible opportunities you would better have "another engagement" on for the next call.

ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG HERE

Be as courteous to your stenographer as you would to any other young woman. Just because she is her employer in no reason to display to her your dispositional fava.

MISS MARGARET LITTLE.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Little of 1318 Sheridan road, Evanston, to H. Mitchell Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Walters of Winnetka.

Next Thursday morning I'll tell you a lot more about our party, and what we've done to make it the "best ever," since it's going to be the "best ever" of the season. So watch the paper next Thursday and Friday—and watch for the letters I'm sending all of you, telling how we'll meet and all the arrangements. Remember—the next announcements will be Thursday and Friday, and the big party is next Friday afternoon, August 31!

Then there's the "barrel of fun," and a theater in which real live actors appear too, only nine inches high! Won't you be glad to see that, among all the other treats we'll have?

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Ask for Outgoing Clothes.

"You have helped me before, for which I want to thank you and your kind readers. I don't know what I would have done without you. Now I'm going to ask another favor. My three oldest children could have an outing only for the lack of sufficient clothing. The girls are 7 and 10 and the boy 9. Perhaps some of your kind readers have things their children have outgrown. I would be more than thankful for them. With six children, and the father sick so much, it is pretty hard to get along."

Six children, and the head of the family ill! It's pretty hard to manage under such conditions. I'm sure some kind mother with children of these ages will come to the aid of the above mentioned little ones, so they won't be deprived of their much needed vacation.

Regular Fairy Godfather.

"I have a crystal radio receiving set (except the car phone) I made myself and which I shall be glad to give to some poor crippled child or shut-in. We have used the set for some time and have had no trouble picking up any of the Chicago stations."

Harold, you are a regular fairy godfather to somebody lucky enough to get your radio set.

"Saturday THE TRIBUNE printed the Bestitudes in six parallel columns, one from the King James version and five from modern translations. These modern translations are not irrelevant, because language usage has changed since the first translation was published, and especially because we know more about the Bible now than was known then."

Digging Them Out.

My most embarrassing moment occurred this spring during my last year in high school. It was my first year there, and all my friends were new. A girl I knew got a new car, and invited me to have a ride. We had gone but a short way when she asked if I wished to drive. Of course, I did, and took the wheel. After some time I became efficient enough to keep the car on the road, and decided I could turn. In doing so, I had to cut across the road and back.

I cut across and backed through a soft embankment of soft clay into a three foot ditch and buried the rear bumper in the other bank. Fortunately it was near a coal mine, and I borrowed a shovel and team and dug out the car. It was a solid cake of mud and so was I.

I didn't drive back. R. R.

White City Chutes to Run Especially for Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I've got more good news for you, White City winners! They're going to open the "Shoot the Chutes" especially for us next Friday afternoon! Usually the chutes are closed in the afternoon, but the White City managers tell me they're going to see that we have absolutely everything—so the chutes will be run for us!

And the other shows too will be run. After what they tell me about the fun house, I can't wait until we get a chance to go through it, and I know you'll be just as anxious as I am. They have a big spinning wheel, and whoever stays on it longest will get a prize. I'm waiting anxiously to see which one of us wins it!

Then there's the "barrel of fun," and a theater in which real live actors appear too, only nine inches high! Won't you be glad to see that, among all the other treats we'll have?

Next Thursday morning I'll tell you a lot more about our party, and what we've done to make it the "best ever," since it's going to be the "best ever" of the season. CERTIE: TO FIT YOURSELF out with the necessary implements for well groomed finger-nails—first get a long flexible steel file. I suppose you will have to pay $1 for a good one but it will last and be satisfactory. Also buy a package of orange wood sticks for a dime or thereabout. For a few more cents you will get a packet of emery boards for smoothing the nails after they have been filed and shaped. You may have to pay as much as $1.25 for a good manicure scissors and 50 cents or $1 for a buffer. Peroxide or lemon juice you may use to bleach the nails. You will also need a polishing powder and then with this outfit you can be ready to step out to tea at the Ritz at any moment. I have manicuring instructions and care of the hands in printed form which I ask a stamped, addressed envelope.

C. R. B.: SOME WOMEN OVER play others under play. I think you do. Otherwise you wouldn't be thinking about growing old. It's a great bereavement when one loses all sense of spirit and play. How about golf? A theater now and then? Know how to dance? If not, learn and get a pretty frock and a handsome man and dance some good old youth back into your soles.

Going Through a Business Day with Good Grace

by Mary Eleanor Russell

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—"Business women's styles? There aren't any," said the clever stenographer. "There are only smart styles and dowdy clothes."

What she meant was that the smartly clad business woman is the appropriately dressed business woman. Such styles as are uniformly worn by well bred women on brief trips from their country homes, say, to lunch and shop in town, are exactly what the business girl should copy. They are always conservative and appropriate, going through a business day with the best grace and taking the longest ride with the fewest wrinkles and least mob attention.

The frock of navy pique with corded edges which we wheel to the front of our showcases today is such a one. It has the first essential of a smart frock—the touch of white, in a ruffled batiste blouse. Then it has a plain skirt, which submits readily to pressing, and is able to meet changes of the weather unflinchingly. Also, it has the coated look, always good on a street frock, and especially desired at this hour. The bolero cut in front gives the youthful line. The bolero is a most accommodating cut, which can be shorter for the young, longer for the more mature.

A handkerchief with an edge of blue and a monogram is tucked into the top edge of the skirt.

A Good Time to Invest in Empire Gas & Fuel Company

First and Refunding Convertible 7½% Gold Bonds, Series "A"

Due May 1, 1937

because you can obtain approximately 1% more annually through purchase of these bonds today than a year ago, or 13½% more to maturity than if bought at the earlier date.

Notwithstanding this fact, there has been no lessening in security, but actual improvement:

- since November 30, 1921, (the condition of the Company as of which date being the basis of the Series A financing) there has been expended for properties and developments to May 1, 1923, more than $12,000,000 with a net increase in bonded debt of only $5,241,700.
- net earnings available for interest for the year ended May 31, 1923, were $12,901,577, in contrast with $6,341,690 for the year ended November 30, 1921.

The reason for this apparent inconsistency of higher yield with improved security is explained largely by general market conditions. When the initial offering of $40,000,000 of these bonds was made in May, 1922, their merits were readily appreciated—the entire issue was quickly taken. But so large an issue in an unsettled bond market such as has prevailed during much of the intervening period does not immediately find its proper level.

The bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange—available in $1,000, $500 and $100 amounts, and are now quoted at about 90% and interest, yielding over 8½%. We recommend the bonds as a safe investment, returning a yield but rarely available among conservative securities. We shall be glad to execute your order at prevailing market levels, or to provide you with more detailed statistical information regarding the Company and its bonds.

During the last five years sales of electricity have increased more than 77%.

TERRITORY SERVED: Staten Island is a rapidly growing territory about three times the size of the Borough of Manhattan. Its population, now estimated at 125,000, has increased 45% since 1910, as compared with an increase of less than 25% for the City of New York as a whole. With greatly improved transportation facilities to the Borough assured through the construction of tunnels between Staten Island and Brooklyn, a great development of the Island may be expected.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds from the sale of the $3,807,800 Refunding and Improvement Mortgage 6½% Gold Bonds, Series "A," will be used to retire the floating indebtedness incurred for extensions, additions, new constructions and other corporate purposes and to acquire $700,000 par value of underlying bonds, which will be deposited with the Trustee of this Issue as additional security for these Bonds.

SECURITY: These Bonds will be secured by a direct mortgage on all the physical property of the Staten Island Edison Corporation, and, in addition, through the pledge of collateral, will be, in effect, a lien on the physical property of the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, subject, in both instances, to $2,200,000 underlying bonds, of which $700,000 will be pledged as additional security for this Issue.

PROPERTY VALUES: The sound value of the electric and railroad properties as determined by an appraisal as of December 31, 1922 by Mr. Edward J. Cheney, formerly Chief and Engineer of the Division of Light and Power of the Public Service Commission for the Second District of the State of New York, plus net additions at cost to June 30, 1923, is $10,850,843, or $5,522,543 in excess of the $5,328,300 total funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public.

EARNINGS: For the year ended June 30, 1923, the net earnings of the Corporation and its subsidiaries available for interest, before deducting depreciation and Federal Income Tax, were equal to over 2½ times the annual interest requirements of the total funded debt, including this Issue, and for the five years ended June 30, 1923, averaged over 1½ times such present interest requirements.

Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. All legal matters will be passed upon by Messrs. Roberts & Montgomery. It is anticipated that delivery of Bonds in temporary form or interim receipts therefor will be made on or about September 18, 1923.

SHO

TAX THIS YEAR
MADDEN'S PLAN

E.O.P. Economies
Warrant Slash.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

(Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—) Reviewers of income taxes all the way from the smallest incomes to the biggest, expressed in congress at the Department of the Treasury, who is also chairman of the committee on appropriations. Following a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today, Mr. Madden said he was convinced that immediate reduction of taxes is feasible in the cost of government already achieved and in the further retrenchment. He stated that there is no good reason why this reduction should not be accomplished by the new congressional session.

Principle of His Plan.

"The principle of the plan I shall submit is simple," Mr. Madden said. "It provides for reduction of the tax on income from all sources, or limited to a saving of 10 percent. The main object is to reduce the tax on the taxpayers of the country." "The Republican party, when in power, enormous sums of money have been transformed into the hands of the government. The income tax has been increased, or will be necessary, in the rule of retrenchment is to reduce the cost of government. It would not be translated into a tax at once."

Mr. Madden differs with Mr. McMillan (Rep., Utah), prospective chairman of the senate finance committee, who recently said a reduction of taxes at the next session is out of the question. He thinks Senator McMillan will change his mind when he sees Mr. Madden's plan.

Radicals May Balk.

The prospective difficulties surrounding tax reduction, however, the attitude of the La Follette radicals who, if they can, will be able, in certain cases, to exercise a balance on the La Follette party, with some Democratic support, is a factor in the demand for a reduction of taxes. Mr. Madden's plan does not touch the income of the La Follette group, merely because it does not touch that feature. He thinks the plan will prove so popular that it will command the support of the Democrats, as well as the La Follette group.

Working out his ideas on legislation, Mr. Madden has not yet decided on the possible amendments to the bill. He expects to introduce a bill in the next session, even over the President's veto. Mr. Madden should reject the plan, as did President Harding.

Business May Finance It.

Mr. Madden thinks the plan is likely, but he believes the bill is passed will prove a bonus independent of the revenue for the government. Whether this independent revenue would take the form of a sale of government property was not prepared.

Mr. Madden said that he did not think his tax reduction plan would be passed, who disclosed that he had intended to recommend a reduction of the surtax on income. The congressman, who with Mr. Mellon the most influential in the department of the treasury, for which approval is needed by congress and the President. Mr. Madden thinks the plan is feasible and that it can be kept in the next session.

Smuggler Chased Into

Watchman's De

While making his rounds on the Burns lumber yard, a watchman discovered a smuggler about some machinery. The watchman's dog barked, where the man was crouched. Police officers arrived in a search of
